

Director of Cray Diabetes Center

Kansas City

The University of Kansas Health System is seeking a Director of an established diabetes specialty clinic serving approximately 3,000 patients and supported in part by philanthropy from the Cray family through the Cray Medical Research Foundation. The Cray center is part of an integrated health system and represents the clinical arm of the KU Diabetes Institute, with external research funding of around $20 million.

Position responsibilities

- Provide leadership for a staff of four mid-level providers and five CDEs, as well as mentorship in diabetes care to medical students, residents and fellows rotating through the centers
- Support innovative models of patient-centered diabetes care and work to enhance and develop new avenues for continuity of care from inpatient to outpatient fostering better patient outcomes and a reduction in early readmissions.
- Provide a venue for, or ideally actively conduct, independent or industry-supported clinical research designed to improve diabetes outcomes. Collaborate with the University of Kansas Medical Center basic scientists to foster translational research and clinical opportunities for PhD students.

- Foster outreach to the wider community, including the entire state of Kansas
